

The Graduate, Greek-style

Reviews have compared Lancaster-born author Jim Zervanos' debut novel, Love Park, to a Greek-American version of The Graduate. The novel's disaffected protagonist, 26-year-old Peter Pappas, dreams of a sexy widow (his Mrs. Robinson) and vows to change his life by moving out of his childhood home in Philadelphia, the city of brotherly love. The colorful cast, set on preserving the sanctity of family, is comprised of his father, a Greek Orthodox priest, a roost ruling mother, a sister with a shocking romantic secret, a brother who dares not disappoint his parents with his non-Greek girlfriend, and Peter, whose affair with an exotic widow jumpstarts his life into adulthood as he discovers a secret that might set his family free—if it doesn't destroy them first.

Honoring Mothers

A young York artist's homecoming show honors mothers and women in a special Mother's Day exhibition where a portion of the proceeds of art sales will benefit Bridge of Hope, a local non-profit aiding homeless single mothers and their children. Donations will also be collected for the charity. The exhibit, "Maidens and Voyages: The Painted Journey of Adrienne Stein," focuses on feminine strength and the complexity and intricacy of the female soul. The Mother's Day show will take place Sunday, May 10, from 1-5pm with an artists' slide presentation at 2pm. More information is available at www.adriennestein.com.

Relax in Perfect Harmony!

Ask anyone who owns a Four Seasons Sunroom, and they'll tell you ... "It's the happiest room in the house!" Perhaps that's because Four Seasons families are drenched in year-round sunshine and relaxation.

"Our job is to install sunshine and comfort in people's lives," enthuses Greg Biscoe, Manager of Central PA's family owned Four Seasons franchise.

"Investing in a sunroom not only increases a home's value, but we literally have customers thanking us for helping them create a more tranquil lifestyle."

Whether you dream of playing piano in dazzling sunlight or dining leisurely under the stars, Four Seasons families relax in "perfect harmony" and so can you!

And with Four Seasons' patented, self-cleaning Conservaglass guaranteeing cost-efficient comfort 365 days/year, there's no worries. Just soothing sessions with Mother Nature, all custom-designed to your specifications and budget.

Perhaps it's time you installed a little sunshine in your life!
